

Dow Jones Commodities Service

A Focused Source of Real-Time News, Data and Analysis Crucial to the Commodities and Futures Markets

The Dow Jones Commodities Service is designed to match the demands of the commodities and futures professional by combining onsite reporting with insight and analysis of the global commodities markets that's unrivaled in scope and depth. It delivers exclusive outlooks and market commentary, plus comprehensive statistics, from cash prices to futures.

Coverage by Dow Jones's Dedicated Commodities Team

is supplemented by news drawn from The Wall Street Journal and Barron's. Whether it's breaking news, perspective or analysis, Dow Jones Commodities Service puts the breadth and experience of the world's largest news service behind your business.

Commodities Reporting from Where News Happens

Starting with a wealth of cash prices for agriculture and metals, and futures markets statistics from all the major exchanges, it follows up with outlooks, in-depth analysis, commentary and exclusives from our editors and reporters in the field.

Dow Jones Commodities Service delivers commodities-focused weather analysis and forecasts, and we top it off with relevant headlines and market-moving features that keep you up-to-date with the big picture.

Whether you are calculating tomorrow's grain trade in Kansas City, or moving tin out of Kuala Lumpur, Dow Jones Commodities Service delivers news your business can grow on.

Complete Cash Statistics: Your Eyes and Ears in the Market

Dow Jones Commodities Service provides comprehensive cash prices for global commodities, gathered by Dow Jones reporters in the field, and direct from the USDA, including Monthly Lock-up Reports.

Dow Jones Commodities Service is tailored to your data needs by news specialists who know your market, and know that every second counts.

Our reporters augment cash price charts with ear-to-the-ground commentary throughout the day. Whether it's knowing what floor brokers are saying in Chicago, or tracking down a grain elevator operator in Kansas, our global team of commodities specialists provide the relevant, real-time information from its source, with the speed and accuracy that adds value to your business.

Inside Commodities with Exclusive Features

The more you know about the market, the more confidence you bring to your decisions. Dow Jones Commodities Service provides unique insights that broaden your understanding of what's driving the market. From our reporters on the floor of the exchanges, you'll not only get the alert on a sudden price movement, you'll know what's behind it with detailed follow-ups.

And from our in-house editors comes technical analysis that's timely and sector-specific, providing a quantitative inside view in the context of the broader market.

Commodities-Focused Weather Forecasts

Dow Jones Commodities Service gives you direct access to expert weather tracking and analysis that traders, producers, and distributors need to know.

Financial Futures Coverage You Can Count On

Fast, accurate tracking of futures prices, daily volume and open interest reports from the major markets around the world.

Market-Moving Economic & Corporate News

A look at the bigger picture puts it all in perspective – market-moving geo-political events, stories from companies that do business in commodities, the latest GDP and economic reports, activity on the bond and debt markets.

To round out the news day, you'll get headlines and full stories from The Wall Street Journal and Barron's.

Real-Time Insight into Market Direction

DJ Market Talk provides 24-hour real-time rolling commentary on what's happening in global commodities markets. Items are triggered by news events, speculation and technical factors - all in quick-to-read and absorb format. Separate streams include:

- Metals - covering base and precious metals
- Grains and oilseeds
- Livestock and meats
- Softs

For more information about Dow Jones Commodities Service, email sales&trading@dowjones.com